INTRODUCTION

One of the important management activities is to fully understand the system in order to take the right decisions that will improve the overall system results within certain limits. The problems that arise often require the right decision making. Decision making is the first step what a manager will do for the problems that occur and produce various alternatives so that problems can be resolved. Along with the rapid growth and development of the economy in Indonesia, the competition among entrepreneurs is also getting tougher. Each - each trying to fix the performance of the company / organization in all aspects contained within a company organization. In general, performance is defined as a person's success in carrying out a job. Performance is a person's success in carrying out a task. Performance is the result of work that can be achieved by a person or group of people in an organization, in accordance with their respective authorities and responsibilities, in an effort to achieve the goals of the organization concerned legally, not violating the law and in accordance with morals and ethics. To improve performance, one of the efforts made is to strengthen the internal control system. This is because the internal control system plays a very important role, especially in managing the company. In addition, from observations related to work experience, namely the working period of managers/employees who have not been too long ranging from 1 to 2 years, the level of knowledge possessed by managers and employees is not yet optimal, and the lack of mastery of the work used in the field of work that affects the results. Managers must have a leadership spirit which is an ability, process and art. This refers to an activity or activity that must be done to influence other people to behave in a certain way. Where successful leaders are leaders who spend time building collaboration across all organizational functions and talking to others informally about the importance of projects and priorities.

Based on empirical experience because many have done other research, it is difficult to find supporting articles in research as previous research or as relevant research. Articles as relevant researchers are needed to strengthen the theory under study, to see the relationship between variables and build hypotheses, also very much needed in the discussion section of research results. This article examines the effect of Organizational Internal Control, Leadership Style and Organizational Commitment on Managerial Performance, a study of Human Resource Management Literature.

Formulation of problem

Based on the background, the problems to be discussed can be formulated in order to build hypotheses for further research, namely:

1. Does Organizational Internal Control affect Managerial Performance ?.
2. Does Leadership Style Affect Managerial Performance ?.
3. Does Organizational Commitment affect Managerial Performance ?.

RESEARCH METHODS

The method of writing scientific articles is the qualitative method and literature review (Library Research). Assessing theory and the relationship or influence between variables from books and journals both offline in the library and online sourced from Mendeley, Google Scholar and other online media.

In qualitative research, literature review must be used consistently with methodological assumptions. This means that it must be used inductively so that it does not direct the questions posed by the researcher. One of the main reasons for conducting qualitative research is that the research is exploratory, (Ali & Limakrisna, 2013). In the next stage, it will be discussed in depth in the section entitled "Related literature" or "library review" (Review literature), as the basis for formulating hypotheses and in the final stage these two literatures become the basis for comparing the results and findings. findings revealed in research. (H. Ali & Limakrisna, 2013)
